

INSURGENT DEMOCRATS

Have About Sealed The Fate of The Ship Purchase Bill.

PROGRESSIVES HOLD BALANCE

Camden Defended His Position In Joining The Insurgents.

Washington, Feb. 5.—Again frustrated yesterday in their plan to recommit the government ship purchase bill with definite instructions for its amendment, senatorial administration leaders were forced to commit without instructions. They are short two votes and hope to get them in by Monday. The Progressives hold the balance of power.

Senator Camden, who was arraigned by Senator Stone for aligning himself with the republicans, defended his position in a speech.

"It is inconsistent," he said, "for those who profess to be leaders here and speak for the administration to criticize democratic senators for conferring with republican senators on this measure when President Wilson immediately called into conference three senators from the republican side of the chamber."

Discussing the bill, Senator Camden declared that viewed from the standpoint "of time-honored democratic doctrine and principle it is most alarming, objectionable and dangerous."

"If it becomes a law," the senator continued, "the democratic party will be irrevocably committed to the theory of a paternal form of government, which freely translated, means state socialism."

PRESIDENT SUSTAINED

Only Five Votes Lacking To Make Measure a Law, Despite Wilson.

THE PARTY LINES ARE LOST.

Two Thirds of Democrats Vote For Bill With Literacy Test.

Washington, Feb. 5.—An attempt to pass the immigration bill prescribing a literacy test for immigrants over President Wilson's veto failed in the house yesterday, the affirmative vote lacking just five of the necessary two-thirds. Of 399 members present, 261 voted to over-ride the veto, 136 voted to sustain the President, and two answered "present."

The final test came at the close of a day of earnest debate in which party lines were abandoned. Majority Leader Underwood vigorously criticized the President's reasons for vetoing the bill, and urged the house to over-ride executive disapproval.

The 261 votes for passing the bill over the veto were cast as follows: Democrats, 166; republicans, 78; progressives and progressive republicans, 16; independent, 1.

Against the bill the vote was: Democrats, 101; "insurgent" democrats, 1; republicans, 32; progressive and progressive republicans, 2.

Presidents Taft and Cleveland vetoed similar measures and attempts to over-ride them failed.

Teacher Stood Pat.

The whipping of a pupil by a school teacher at M. Rose, Fla., resulted in a fight in which Wm. Yates, the teacher, was shot and killed, and Claude Holzenhoff, father of the pupil, was probably fatally wounded. According to the authorities who investigated the affair, Holzenhoff and two sons attacked Yates on the highway after school closed. In the fight, it is explained, Yates and Wilbur Holzenhoff used revolvers. The latter is in jail here charged with the killing of Yates and the elder Holzenhoff, who is not expected to survive his wounds, is under guard at his home.

WHALEY LOSES

Judgment Against Him For $100 For Scaring a Horse.

In the case of Dr. W. H. Jefferson and Dug Williams for $200 damages against Mr. C. H. Whaley, of Hopkinsville, the jury returned a verdict for $100 in favor of the plaintiffs. They claimed that last summer, while Williams' horse which was being used by Dr. Jefferson, was hitched in front of the residence of Mr. Sam Boyd, it became frightened at Whaley's automobile and slipped, fell upon the pavement, dislocating its hip. This case was tried in the last September term of court and a similar verdict rendered, but the defendant was granted a new trial. —Cadiz Record.

HAS KEEN BUSINESS SENSE

Wife of Celebrated Musical Composer Never Neglectful of Business End of Transaction.

A little story told by Les Annales shows that Madame Strauss, the wife of Richard Strauss, the composer, is a woman with a keen business sense; it is perhaps she who has made her husband's reputation as the shrewdest dealer among musicians.

One day a young musician called on Strauss and asked permission to play for him a parody on the famous composer's "Salome." Strauss granted the request. When the young man had finished, Strauss was enthusiastic in his approval. "Very droll! very droll!" he cried. "It will be a success, a great success! I congratulate you."

As the young musician was on the point of leaving, Madame Strauss entered and her husband at once began an enthusiastic explanation. "This young gentleman," he cried, "has just composed a parody on 'Salome'—a truly remarkable piece of work!"

Madame Strauss raised her eyebrows. "What terms have you made?" she asked in a low voice. "Why, no terms."

"That is no way to do; demand 25 per cent royalties!"

And turning to the writer of the parody, Madame Strauss advised him, with seemingly maternal solicitude, to accept the advantageous offer that the master was willing to make to him. Thus it came about that the parody on "Salome" which as Mr. Strauss prophesied, was very successful, is today a source of considerable income for the Strausses.

IN MEMORIAM.

Willis Franklin Wood was born near Crofton, Ky., Nov. 4, 1830. He was a son of William and Peninah Wood who came to this county from North Carolina in 1808. They were of the sturdy stock of the old North state and set an example for honesty, industry and thrift for those who followed them. Their son, Frank, grew to manhood near old Bainbridge and was one of those who was ever in the front rank in all matters of benefit to the community at large. He early acquired the habit of reading and was a ready debater in the old time "School House" debates, with such well known characters as Lee and Frank Blue, W. H. Nolen, Dr. C. B. Woodsley, Prof. F. H. Renshaw and others, many of whom have since become noted in law, medicine and other lines. He listened attentively to discourses by such eminent divines as Rev. A. W. Meacham, Robert Anderson and Bishop Division and profited by them. He possessed a fund of knowledge and was well informed as to general events. He was of a general disposition and had a kind of original wit which left its imprint on those about him.

He lived in the same neighborhood almost all his life and was known and respected far and wide. He was among the most prominent men in the community and will be missed. He was honest to a fault, loved his friends and was never known to falter when duty called. He possessed considerable literary talent and had good judgment in most things valuable to man, and many a young and awkward youth has listened to his words of wisdom and profited thereby. He was a gentleman of the old school—a type fast disappearing, and lived his life among those he loved and spent his last days in reading current history.

He was a great lover of poetry and revelled in the works of Byron, Longfellow and Burns. He also prized the writings of Geo. D. Prentice and delighted to quote Abraham Lincoln.

His family has lost a noble member, his associates a true friend and the community a useful citizen. May he rest in peace. E. B.

Virginia Only Producer of Rutile. Virginia produced all the American output of rutile in 1913, according to the United States geological survey, the deposits being located at Roseland, Nelson county. During the year the company which controls and works these deposits produced 305 tons of rutile, valued at about forty-nine thousand dollars.

A large part of the rutile produced in 1913 was used in the manufacture of titanium carbide electrodes for arc lamps. A part of the ilmenite found in the deposits and separated by means of a magnetic separator has been sold for use in making electrodes for electric lights, and the experiments with the electric furnace point to the possible use of ilmenite in the direct production of tool steel.
